Commission to Kickoff Women's History Month By "Remembering Our Past - Shaping Our Future"

The President's Commission on Women's Affairs will be reflecting on the past and looking to the future when it hosts a kickoff event in celebration of Women's History Month.

The program, entitled "Remembering Our Past - Shaping Our Future," is scheduled for March 2 from noon to 1:30 p.m. in the Atrium of the Stamp Student Union.

There will be a "getting acquainted" time during the first half hour of the brown bag lunch. Drinks will be provided.

Diana Jackson, assistant to the president and a former women's commission chair, will be the guest speaker during the "Remembering Our Past" segment from 12:30 to 1 p.m. That segment will also include a panel presentation by seven of the commission's former chairs, who will be sharing their experiences.

Former chairs participating on the panel will be Judith Sorum Brown (1975-1977), Ann Wylie (1977-78), Bonnie Tyler (1978-1981), Vicki Freimuth (1981-1984), Carol Pearson (1984-1985), Diana Jackson (1985-1987), Virginia Beauchamp (1987-1990) and Josephine Withers (1990-1992).

The commission's first chair, Margaret Bonz, will not be able to attend.

Rounding out the program from 1 to 1:30 p.m. will be a segment on "Shaping Our Future" with facilitators Withers and chair-elect Gladys Brown. Participants are encouraged to voice concerns about current challenges and opportunities for the future.

For more information, call Deborah Reid Bryant at 314-7225.

The commission in conjunction with the Committee on Women of Color also will be presenting a second annual Women's History Month program on "Listening to Women's Voices: Celebrating our Diversity."

Seefeldt Receives $450,000 Grant to Evaluate Local Head Start Program

Carol Seefeldt, professor in the Department of Human Development in the College of Education, has received a $450,000 grant from the Administration for Children, Youth, and Families to evaluate the Montgomery County Public School Head Start Transition Program.

The three-year grant, which is part of the National Head Start-Public School Transition Demonstration Program, is an effort to provide support to children and families as they move from the Head Start program through kindergarten and the first three grades of public school.

"The premise is that continual Head Start-like services will enable children to maintain and enhance the early benefits gained during their Head Start years," says Seefeldt. "We're taking the idea of Head Start into the public schools with all the components, including the social services areas of education, health and parent involvement."

The program is also attempting to determine the outcomes for children and families when comprehensive Head Start-like services are delivered over a period of time after the child has entered elementary school.

"The question isn't so much whether or not gains are maintained," says Seefeldt, "as it is to identify what works and doesn't work once children enter the public schools."

Seefeldt is part of a joint effort of 32 local evaluation teams working in a national consortium under the leadership of the Civitan International Research Center at the University of Alabama at Birmingham and its National Research Coordinating Team.

Seefeldt is no stranger to the Head Start program. In 1965 while living in Florida she began her career as a teacher educator training the first group of Head Start teachers there and later went on to serve as Florida's Head Start Regional Training officer.

Since then she has been a firm believer in the Head Start process.

"This is important to me, because I know it works. I know the children, their families and all of society benefit," she says. "The question for me now is whether or not we can maintain the gains we make with these kids by working together with Head Start, the school system, and other community agencies."

International Referral Network to Hold Open House

Wives and husbands of international students, staff, scholars and faculty are invited to an open house, Thursday, February 27 at Dorchester International House from 2 to 3 p.m. and a multicultural coffee hour from 3 to 4:30 p.m. The theme of the open house is "Welcome to the UMCP Family." It is designed to welcome the spouses of international students and faculty who may feel dislocated and isolated, and to provide them with the opportunity to meet others in a similar position as well as collect information about the campus and community. Children are welcome. Call Lee Harper at 56330 for details.

Lilly Teaching Fellows Program to Continue in 1992-93

The popular and highly successful Lilly Teaching Fellows Program, which during the past three years has triggered some of the campus' most stimulating discussions and innovative projects related to undergraduate education, will be continued in 1992-93.

The announcement was made by Undergraduate Studies Dean Kathryn Mohrman and Associate Dean Maynard Mack, Jr.

"We are excited by the opportunity to continue the Lilly program in a new form and to open it to a larger group," Mohrman says. "We believe it will encourage continued attention to undergraduate education and allow concerned faculty members the opportunity to expand their own horizons while heightening campus awareness of all that still needs to be accomplished."

The 1992-93 Lilly Fellowship will give ten College Park faculty members the chance to meet together during the academic year to develop individual and common interests in undergraduate education. Each fellow will receive $3,000 to support summer work, a graduate assistant, or professional expenses.

The program is open to all full time tenured and tenure track faculty, regardless of rank.

"All faculty members with a desire for intellectual fellowship focused on undergraduate education are encouraged to apply: quality of ideas and evidence of commitment will outweigh any particular agenda," the announcement states.

The application deadline is March 18. For more information and application forms, call 405-9354 or 405-9360.

Correction

An item in the February 10 issue of Outlook gave the erroneous impression that the Department of Art History and Archaeology is a co-sponsor of the Graduate School's Distinguished Lecture Series.

He will use various demonstrations to illustrate the characteristics of his subject. Doors open at 7 p.m. The lecture-demonstration runs from 7:30 to 8:45 p.m. Call 405-5994.

FYI / ARTS

"Native Americans: Myth & Reality" to be Explored February 29

The Concert Society at Maryland continues its WorldSong Series when it joins with the Maryland Opera Studio on February 29 to present "Native Americans: Myth & Reality."

The day-long series of performances begins when the Maryland Opera Studio presents a concert reading of two early Italian operas purporting to depict the first encounters between Europeans and Native Americans: the 1690 Il Colombo ovvero L'India scoperta (Columbus, or the Discovery of India), and the 1772 Montezuma.

The reading (no costumes, scenery or dance) will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. in Tawes Recital Hall.

According to Carol Robertson, associate professor in the Department of Music, this is the first 20th-century performance of these operas, which project the mythology of Europe onto Native Americans.

Presented by the Department of Music, these opera excerpts also will feature commentary by German musicologist Jurgen Maehder, the world's leading authority on Columbus and Montezuma operas.

The reality of a Native American point of view from another part of the New World can be seen in "An Iroquois Evening," starting at 8 p.m. at the Center of Adult Education and featuring Mohawk storyteller Stephen Fadden and the Allegany River Indian Dancers. Fadden, from the Akwesasne Mohawk Reservation, will relate his people's encounter with Europeans in traditional tales dating from the 18th century.

The Allegany River Indian Dancers, from the Seneca Reservation in western New York, will fill the second half of "An Iroquois Evening" with traditional Iroquois music and dance. Leader Bill Crouse, a professional powwow master-of-ceremonies, will introduce and explain each of the dances.

A pre-concert panel discussion, designed to give the "An Iroquois Evening" audience an opportunity to learn more about the Iroquois music and dance, begins at 6:30. Funded by the Maryland Humanities Council and moderated by College Park ethnomusicologist Marcia Herndon, the panel will include Stephen Fadden, Bill Crouse, Onondaga Chief Irving Powless, Jr., and Harvey Arden, co-author of Wisdomkeepers: Meetings with Native American Spiritual Elders.

According to Michael Wilpers, WorldSong Series director for the Concert Society at Maryland, all of this and next season's WorldSong Series events will be devoted to American Indian traditions in commemoration of the Columbus Quincentenary.

"An Iroquois Evening" is co-sponsored by the Concert Society at Maryland and the Folklore Society of Greater Washington. For ticket information, call the Concert Society at Maryland at 403-4239.

19 Certified as Foodservice Management Professionals

Nineteen managers and administrators from the UMCP Department of Dining Services were recently certified as Foodservice Management Professionals, the highest credential awarded by the Educational Foundation of the National Restaurant Association to those working in the foodservice industry.

The certification recognizes individuals who demonstrate professional experience, knowledge, and dedication to the industry.

Applicants for certification must have demonstrated foodservice experience, professional knowledge and a foodservice education background, and pass a certification examination that tests their knowledge of accounting/finance, administration, human resources, marketing, and operations. Certification is for three years and points for recertification can be earned through professional and educational activities.

The newly certified employees are: Bart Hipple, Mack White and Wendy Borgenicht (Ellicott Diner); Randi Dutch (Rossborough Inn); Larry Donnelly and Denise Sutter (South Campus Dining Room); Robert Beckman (Stamp Union); Dave Bullock (Concessions), and Shirlene Chase (Denton Dining Room).

Also Pat Wadsworth (Catering); Jeannette Bowie and Wyatt Stuard (Warehouse); Louise Piper (Nutritionist); Helga Wappaur (Procurement Manager), and Larry Evans and James Allenchey (Assistant Directors). Last November, Director Matthew Sheriff, and Assistant Directors Pat Higgins and Joseph Pesce received certification.

Institutional Studies Director Marilyn Kersting Brown Dies

Marilyn Kersting Brown, 54, director of the Office of Institutional Studies, died of cancer in her Silver Spring home Feb. 9.

Brown was known for her studies on the salaries of women faculty and for her work in developing ways to review the effectiveness of administrative units. Before coming to College Park in 1979, she worked for nine years in the Institutional Research Office at the University of Pittsburgh, beginning as an administrative assistant and progressing to the position of director.

Born in Pittsburgh, Brown held a bachelor's degree in psychology and a master's degree in information science from the University of Pittsburgh. She earned her Ph.D. in higher and adult education at College Park in 1990.

Brown served on numerous campus committees, including the President's Commission on Women's Affairs, the Priorities Committee and the Enrollment Management Committee.

She was a member of many national and regional organizations, including the Association for Institutional Research; the Southern Association for Institutional Research; the Southern University Group; the Maryland/District of Columbia ACT Council; and the Maryland Association for Institutional Research, which she founded, and serving as Steering committee chair. The Association for Institutional Research recognized Brown for presenting the best paper at its 1988 Forum. She also received the association's Outstanding Service Award in 1991.

The University of Maryland at College Park has established the Marilyn K. Brown Loan Fund to assist returning women students with short-term financial assistance. Contributions should be made to the Marilyn K. Brown Loan Fund and sent to the Office of Institutional Advancement, 3112 Lee Bldg.

A memorial service will be held March 20 at 3 p.m. in Memorial Chapel.
